Lost your pet? Found a pet?
Bring your community together on PawSpotter.

Add clear photos so we can recognise your pet. If someone reports a found pet, we use AI to compare its photos with registered pets and look for possible matches.

How it works

A few photos could help bring your pet home.

1 Create your free account

Register and open the activation link in your email.

2 Introduce your pet

Upload clear photos of your pet's face, both sides and whole body. Include unusual markings. Allow private photo comparison in your profile.

3 Tell us when you need help

If your pet goes missing, report where and when you last saw your pet. If you find a pet, upload clear photos and tell us where you found it.

4 We look for a possible match

AI looks at the found pet's photos and compares them with registered pet photos. It looks for similarities such as colour, markings and appearance.

5 You help confirm the match

If you have reported your pet missing, we notify you when we find a possible match. You can then communicate privately with the person who found the pet and check whether it is yours.

Your details stay private

Your name, email address and phone number are not shown publicly. You choose whether to share your contact details.

Please microchip your pet

Ask your vet about microchipping and keep your chip registration details up to date.
